Council for Older Adults Volunteer Recognized as Central Ohio Outstanding Senior Volunteer

Every year, Medical Mutual of Ohio recognizes those individuals who devote their time and energies to others. This year, Medical Mutual recognized Eileen Fogel as Central Ohio Outstanding Senior Volunteer. Eileen was nominated by the Council for Older Adults for the outstanding volunteer work that she provides to the organization. She was the only Delaware County resident to receive this statewide award.

As a Council volunteer, Eileen serves in a few important roles. Several times a month, she enlists volunteers to assemble mailings and ensures that the Council's publications go out as scheduled to thousands of recipients. She also volunteers for the Senior Farmers' Market Voucher Program, which distributes vouchers to older adults to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables. In addition, she works one day a week as a dining room assistant in the Studio 60 dining room at the Center for Older Adults.

Amy Brown, Coordinator of Volunteers at the Council for Older Adults, says, "Eileen is always pleasant and comes in to volunteer with her 'can do' attitude. She is a joy to work with and a very dedicated member of the Council's volunteer team. We would like to congratulate her on receiving this award and thank her for her significant contribution to our organization."

Eileen is both a mother and a grandmother. In addition to her considerable volunteer work in the community, she also works part time. Eileen has been volunteering at the Council for Older Adults since June 2006.
